GRSC 7900: Integrated Course Design

Thursdays, 9:30 AM - 12:15 PM, Call #00-282

Fall 2013
This course will give graduate students a foundation in course design grounded in strong pedagogical theory. Students will design or redesign a course, beginning with their goals for student learning and continuing through feedback, assessment, and teaching and learning activities.

This course is directed toward graduate students from across campus who are:
• interested in enhancing student learning in their courses
• pursuing the Interdisciplinary Certificate in University Teaching.
• searching for ways to enhance their vita to set them apart from others during the job search.

Pre-requisite: GRSC 7770 Seminar for Graduate Teaching Assistants (or departmental equivalent).
