

RESPONSIBLE CONDUCT OF RESEARCH REQUIREMENT

Beginning Fall 2016, newly matriculating graduate students who receive financial support through an assistantship/fellowship that is supported partially or fully with funds from the Graduate School must complete training in the Responsible Conduct of Research (RCR). This training must be completed within the first year of enrollment. Continuation of funding beyond the first year is contingent upon demonstrated completion of this requirement. The table below lists several courses offered at UGA that meet the Graduate School requirement.

CITI RCR Online Training

The CITI RCR training program offered through the UGA Office of the Vice President for Research (OVPR) offers modules in the behavioral and social sciences and humanities. Students in these disciplines may use this online course offered through the OVPR to supplement training in their specific discipline. Please go to the following link <http://research.uga.edu/compliance-training/rcr/> and follow the instructions for the UGA CITI Login Portal and verification of module completion.

\ In fall, there are 4 sections of GRSC 8550 offered. Two sections are open only to students in the Integrative Life Sciences (ILS) program. Any department can request approval through the Graduate School to offer their own section of GRSC 8550 by contacting gradassociatedean@uga.edu.*

Or, if a department wishes to develop its own version of 8550 using the departmental prefix, please submit a new course request through CAPA.
